

SZSN Expansion To Increase Production By 60 Million KG

Shandong Zhouyuan Seed and Nursery Co., Ltd (SZSN)

$0.28 UP 16.6%

SZSN's 45,000 square foot expansion and new advanced production line will increase annual production by 60 Million KG's of seed.

This one is on the move again! Watch for news and get on SZSN first thing Monday!

The drive takes them through occupied Palestinian lands.

My brother hasn't been to school since Saturday because there are groups of Fata h and Hamas armed men near his school building.

So we have to go abroad and start a new life.

"And he tried to gain support from the rest of the passengers and I underwent a half-hour of pure hell - abuse, humiliation, threats, even physical intimidation

My brother hasn't been to school since Saturday because there are groups of Fatah and Hamas armed men near his school building.

"We were naive and thought we could win this fight but we can't.

There was shooting everywhere and we didn't know where it came from.

Another told me that in a society that is democratic and where the buses are subsidised by the government, a minority's concerns should not override those of the majority.

This is especially true between the Hamas executive force and Fatah strongman Muhammad Dahlan's Preventive Security force.

The shift in power heralded a period of violence on the streets of Gaza.

One man told me that if some people wanted segregation buses they should pay a private company to provide them.

Air strikes by Israel targeting militants in the densely populated city often kill bystanders as well.

I said, "Do you know who I am?"

The drive takes them through occupied Palestinian lands.

They'll have to postpone our exams.

Mr Abbas and Mr Haniya have repeatedly announced ceasefires between their factions.

It's like it's already a lost cause.

The video appears to have been shot

Husbands left heavily pregnant wives or spouses struggling with prams and pushchairs to fend for themselves as they and all other male passengers got on at the front of the bus.

Tiny Lebanon baffles outsiders.

The shift in power heralded a period of violence on the streets of Gaza.

Now the inter-factional violence, which subsided for a couple of months, has reared its head with a vengeance.

"In some places there are separate sides of the street women have to walk on.

Gaza is also awash with illegal weapons.

"They've already cancelled higher education in the ultra-orthodox world for women.

Despite attempts to negotiate a solution, the rivalry has become increasingly violent, vengeful and destructive.

We were meant to give one of our final presentations by video-conference tomorrow, but that is impossible now.

In the aftermath of the war, the country began the task of physical reconstruction - but was still plagued by its old divisions.

"Let's shoot him in the legs," said the other.

All around are wooden carts piled high with strawberries, tomatoes and fresh green almonds.

"Let's shoot him in the legs," said the other.

But then the army put up a checkpoint and the situation became worse.

Neither faction has come to terms with sharing power. The international community adopted a "wait and see" approach to the new government.

ASHRAF IBRAHIM, volunteer, Nahr al-Bared camp, via phone There is fighting.

Even people in the Middle East find its politics confusing.

Abbas and Haniya have announced several factional ceasefires. Fatah gunmen are loyal to the Palestinian President, Mahmoud Abbas; Hamas gunmen to the Palestinian Prime Minister, Ismail Haniya.

You could see some people on the street.

Two Palestinians in Gaza City and one in Rafah in the south describe the security situation.

A Palestinian journalist from Rafah describes a trip to Gaza City, and a student there describes exam frustrations.

"They've already cancelled higher education in the ultra-orthodox world for women.